A Message of Hope

Remember how each episode of Sesame Street was brought to you by certain letters and numbers? This spring feels like it is brought to us by the words 'tired', 'uncertain', and 'frost'; and the numbers through terms like 'case counts', 'variants of concern', and 'age of vaccine eligibility' (who knew 40 would be such a desirable age?). This might seem like a strange way to start a message of hope, but if we do not name the things troubling us, they tend to grow bigger. Naming them keeps them manageable. Once we have done this, it is important to find the things that give us hope, such as the blossoms surviving the cold on the trees, the innovative teachers connecting with their students, the students doing their best, and all the parents and caregivers doing the impossible supporting students right now. As trustees, we know that what is being asked of everyone at the moment is difficult, and remind you to do what you can, and not feel guilty about the rest. If you have questions or concerns, please reach out, because we have got this; we have got this together.

Vaccine Advocacy

Trustees recently sent a letter to Minister of Education Stephen Lecce, Minister of Health Christine Elliott, and Grey Bruce Health Unit's Medical Officer of Health Dr. Ian Arra to request that COVID-19 vaccines be prioritized for frontline essential education workers. We are so pleased to see that this process has been expedited with all Bluewater employees now eligible for their first doses. To ensure the safe reopening of our schools, additional protection for our staff is a next step to reduce the risk of COVID-19 and avoid further disruption in our school communities. 2021-22 Budget

Trustees continue to work through the 2021-22 budget process. A public budget consultation survey recently enabled parents/guardians, students, and staff to submit feedback on the focus areas they consider to be most important for the next school year. According to the survey results, educational programs and services that rank highest in priority include 'reading and writing skills', followed by 'math', and 'mental health and well-being'. Click here to learn more about the 2021-22 budget. Trustees thank those who provided input, which will help to inform decision-making on the efficient, effective, and equitable use of board resources for 2021-22.

Trustees Voice Online Learning Concerns

In a letter to Minister of Education Stephen Lecce, trustees recently expressed concerns over a possible move by the provincial government to change how eLearning is delivered to students in Ontario. This information has come to light in various media reports referencing private government documents. The plan would also include a push to make remote learning a permanent option for those who choose this method of education delivery. If implemented, the delivery of eLearning courses would shift from the current localized approach to a centralized model coordinated through TVO/TFO. There are several concerns related to this proposed plan, including the loss of involvement and expertise of local educators. In regard to the plan for a permanent online option, there are concerns related to the potential impacts on in-person learning, such as staffing and resources. Trustees are requesting that public conversations related to the proposed plan involve consultation with school boards and education stakeholders in Ontario. As we continue to gather evidence from this past year on the full impact of online learning, we want to work with our provincial and education partners to ensure any plan meets the local needs of students, while honouring the firsthand expertise and leadership of school boards.
